

Causes for celebration

Friday's celebration assembly was filled with fantastic achievements. Stand out moments included three separate musical performances, involving the playing of recorders and the piano.

We also announced the final results from our school chess tournament, with certificates given to all participants, special badges given to the highest achievers in the tournament... and a special trophy awarded to this year's school chess champion!

in school

Our fundraising effort last half term raised £134.15 for the NSPCC. Thank you all so much for your ongoing support for good causes.

The children have been excited to see hatching chicks in our school hall this past week. We have them in school until Friday!

Break in

As you may be aware, we recently suffered a break in. As a result we are currently reviewing our security procedures, including preventative measures, to minimise the possibility of any repeat. PCSO Henegan will be visiting school on Tuesday 14th March to offer her insight, as well as being a reassuring presence for us all. She advised that there have been several recent burglaries in the local community, so please be vigilant and do what you can to maximise the safety of your own homes. I am also hoping that PCSO Henegan's increased presence around the school will improve the car parking situation on Parsons Road at either end of the school day, which many of us still feel is not acceptable.
